

ONE END OF A DUEL REA

JOHN DALY CARRIES HIS PISTOL ALBANY AND BACK.

O'Donovan Rossa Slumbers in Brooklyn His Second Slip from the Train—Able Branding of the Dynamite Apoc-

The notion that the story of a prop-duel between O'Donovan Rossa and

It was said in THE SUN of yesterday when the seconds met on Wednesday afternoon at the Waldorf Hotel, that the seconds should have known the following morning at Hoboken. This report was agreed with the intention of diverting the attention of the police if they should think of attempting interference. At that meeting there were present: John McInerney, Mr. Daly's seconds; John Kearney, who was to be the referee; Dwyer, whom Daly had selected as surgeon; Patrick Joyce, and John J. McGrath of Colorado. There was an animated discussion over the choice of weapons. Kearney said several times that he desired no butchery, and suggested that Mr. McInerney should be used as a referee. Mr. McInerney denies that any such remarks were made, and that he is not settled that duelling pistols should be used.

[illegible]

At 6 o'clock Mr. Daly and his friends met at the depot. They say he positively asserted that Rossa had gone to Saratoga by the 6 o'clock train, and would be waiting there. He said he was at the depot at 6 o'clock, and that he offered to take the same train, but he was obstructed, and said there was a chance of it if they should be seen together. Then he said he would wait for him at the depot, and would take the 11 o'clock train for Albany that night, and on their arrival would go to Burke & Sausser's saloon in Broadway, and would wait for him. But he said he would then go on to Saratoga.

Mr. Dwyer says he still distrusted Rossa, and that he telephoned to the police and told him of the train, and they saw him.

[illegible][illegible]

MRS. MELVILLE ON THE ST.
A Pathetic Story that Drew Tears from Eyes of the Court and Spectator PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 11.—There was impressive scene in the court room in to-day at the hearing of the Melville habeas case. Fashionable ladies occupied the and waited until half past 9 to-night, w court adjourned, rather than go out an the stillness that prevailed. Mrs. Melv heratory in a low voice, almost a whisper, had not gone far before every lady in the room was in tears. Even the lawyers, who were not supposed to be moved by emotion, were in tears. Mrs. Melville denied the assertion made by her husband. She told him she had waited patiently for months for the opportunity to tell him of her long and lonely night dreaming of the Joannetto in an Italian dress, and that she had waited for him with joy; how else could she prepare and come home on this return, and, when she found that he had married and how he would not even kiss his children, how could she have sought to take from them the love which they had for her and to turn up my children," she said, just not the favor in this court," shouting the little child into the air, and then she took her from her children and sent her to her mother's home, where she was the favorite of the crazed inmates. She described an experience there and told how she had been bathed, not in the tears from her own eyes, but in the tears from her mother's. She told this story, which occupied four or five minutes, in a low voice, and then she went on to carry the entire court room with her. She told the story of the Judge's wife, who had been married after the Judge had died. Mrs. Melville said that she

BLACKBURN WANTS TO BE SPEAKER

Some Interesting Talk Between him and Mr. Ellis of Louisiana.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Congressman Blackburn is campaigning vigorously for the speakership. Yesterday Congressman Blackburn met Blackburn in the Appointments Committee's room.

Said Hiseock: "Joe, go for Ellis, please."

Said Blackburn: "No; Ellis is against me and for Carlisle."

Said Ellis: "Yes, I am against you."

Then Blackburn rebuked Ellis for saying so.

ing Cascade, and reminded Ellis that it was not supposed to favor the Mississippi River Commission. This touched Ellis some rather hot words followed.

At last Blackburn twitted Ellis of his attempt to prevent the appointment of the Mississippi River Committee. He told him that it was very strange that a Louisiana gentleman should have the audacity to hint that the committee to be sent through when an objection would have been made.

Ellis professed to be astonished that Blackburn should allow his anxiety to be so carried him so far as to make such a statement, and then they separated.

After this the friendship between the two was rather cold as between Blackburn and

New York County Anti-Slavery

[illegible][illegible]

ONE END OF A DUEL REAT
JOHN DALY CARRIES HIS PISTOL
ALBANY AND BACK.

The notion that the story of a proposed duel between O'Donovan Rossa and John Dwyer, whom Dwyer had selected as surrogate for John McInerney, was settled that duelling pistols should be used.

the matter, Kearney insisted that Kloss had been in the night and McGrath said he would kiss Kloss on the cheek. Kloss backed out. It was agreed that the principals and the seconds should meet at McGrath's home at 5 o'clock that afternoon and go on to Saratoga.

Mr. Daly, Mr. McInerney, and Mr. Dwyer were at once to the depot and waited there. As Mr. Kearney arrived alone, bringing word that Mr. Kloss and Dr. Shine would be at the depot at 5 o'clock, he went on to Mr. Dwyer's residence, expressing doubts as to the result. Mr. Kearney replied that he would "brand Kloss as a coward and if he failed." This seemed to be reasonable and according to the code.

The time table showed that the only train for Saratoga that evening left at 5:15. Mr. McGrath suggested that very early in the morning Kloss would board the train at

At 8 o'clock Mr. Daly and his friends met Mr. Kearney at the depot. They said they had only been to the Elks' House and to Saratoga by the 6 o'clock train, and would await them there. He said he was also on the 9 o'clock train. Daly at once offered to take the same train, but Kearney objected, and said there was a chance of a fight if they should be seen together. Then he said he would wait for them at the depot. They were to take the 11 o'clock train for Atlantic City, and on their arrival were to go to Burke & Saubers's saloon in Broadway, the Delavan House, and wait for him. They would then go on to Saratoga.

After supper says the story, the trusted Karpis and told Melvin to follow and accompany him on the train. Kearney saw him at the depot, and they went to the train.

[illegible][illegible][illegible][illegible] drove his well-known trotter E. Van John to the Morton House, at Broadway and Fourteenth street, and in the unprecedented time of minutes and 30 seconds.

These are but a few of the best known who are the stars of the fair. There is a display of all sorts over the beautiful snow.

Pierre Lorillard's Valet Hurt.

In the cellar of Mr. Pierre Lorillard's at Thirty third street and Fifth avenue is a carriage shop. Yesterday forenoon the carpenter, Harris, was working at the bench and Mr. Lorillard was in the shop. The latter was looking at a new harness being hurried by trying to extract the nail from a six-shooter. One of the cartridges exploded in the face of the man, and the second member of Fowler's left hand, while he lay on the floor, broke above the right eye, leaving it in a terrible condition. The man was not hurt, but powder had killed his face and seriously injured his hand.

MRS. MELVILLE ON THE ST.
A Pathetic Story that Drew Tears from
Eyes of the Court and Spectator PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 11.—There was

[illegible]

BLACKBURN WANTS TO BE SPEAKER

Some Interesting Talk Between him and Mr. Ellis of Louisiana.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Congressman Blackburn is campaigning vigorously for the speakership. Yesterday Congressman Blackburn met Blackburn in the Appointments Committee's room.

Said Hiseock: "Joe, go for Ellis, please."

Said Blackburn: "No; Ellis is against me and for Carlisle."

Said Ellis: "Yes, I am against you."

Then Blackburn rebuked Ellis for saying so.

ing Cascade, and reminded Ellis that it was not supposed to favor the Mississippi River Commission. This touched Ellis some rather hot words followed.

At last Blackburn twitted Ellis of his attempt to prevent the appointment of the Mississippi River Committee. He told him that it was very strange that a Louisiana gentleman should have the audacity to hint that the committee to be sent through when an objection would have been made.

Ellis professed to be astonished that Blackburn should allow his anxiety to be so carried him so far as to make such a statement, and then they separated.

After this the friendship between the two was rather cold as between Blackburn and

New York County Anti-Slavery

[illegible][illegible]

Marriage of Don Cameron's Daughter.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Miss Virginia Cameron, daughter of Senator Cameron, was married this evening at her father's residence to this city to Lieut. Alexander Rodgers of the United States Army. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Neale, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of New York city. The wedding reception was given by the bride's mother, Mrs. Wm. Cameron, at the Palmer, with their own daughters, a large number of friends of the bride and groom. The bride was elected Chairman, and F. H. Murch Secretary.

The New York Collectors

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—There has been a pressure of business on the Senate Committee on Finance, and out of this have come the rumors of removal at hand. The President seems to have decided that the committee should not report until the committee has had a chance to visit the army and navy. A similar rumor was reported in the press some time since. He believes that the committee will report in the near future, to appoint some special L. Woodford.

Too Much Work for One General

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—The Senate Committee reported today that "it is to undertake to revise, reconsider, and recommend the existing laws relating to the regular army in regard to dates of entry into the service, the rank, the pay, the variable time of the terms of the army and the conditions of the service, and attempting to change the existing laws, to prevail in the army as in civil life."

The Illinois Senatorship.
SPRINGFIELD, Jan. 11.—The House adopted a resolution declaring any one elected United States Senator if elected while an officeholder in the State of Illinois ineligible to the office. The vote stood 80 to 65.

JOTTINGS ABOUT TOWN.
Messrs Phillips and Walton will skate the race on the rink in the Manhattan Park grounds on Saturday afternoon. The contest will be a partnership yesterday to make inquiries about the will of Joseph R. Skidmore was yesterday to probate. The testator left all his property and children to his wife and children.

The annual meeting and dinner of the Alumni Association of Amherst College will be at Belmont's on Jan. 11. F. F. Marsburg will preside.

The names of Robert Graves & Co. and Wm. H. Graves & Co. were checked for $250,000, his first. He has never before.

The sale of the Church of the Holy Saviour on Fifth street, east of Madison avenue, by the Desier A. Clapp, to Nathaniel Withersall and Co. for $55,000, was recorded yesterday.

Anthony Comstock and Geo. E. Gram, who made a raid on the Police Court yesterday, accusing Sergeant Westervelt and Shill of giving notice to the gamblers on Third street of Saturday's raid.

The cases of disease which have originated in the 100 block of Third street were yesterday baptised fever. The fifth patient, Mary McRemoval, to the Riverside Hospital yesterday the opposition of her family.

D. to

of nd
dis
ry.
fr.
ne
er a-
the fr.
ot:
as
the
the
be ng nt

r-litio
 x, n m re
 or n at a
 of he a ol d. he
 of na
 id
 ul
 ret nd
 to by ho in.
 re
 ay
 ko
 en
 m y.
 ed
 ds ir-
 sc-
 ers
 ds

ex-
 rs les oct.
 ter 800 600

 cu-
 in ras
 the
 the nat is-ad

 astor
 ad-
 ris
 ive
 way ould
 int
 of ex-
 It
 the

 sym
 aid
 inwas is-
 He
 of
 the use

nk-
 the ern.
 om-
 ness nder exes
 ick,
 r B.
 Mo-
 mas
 Val-
 ent,
 ank
 rick
 aith,
 men
 ated nev-
 Du-
 tor.
 the arie
 net.
 owi-

the Cor-
ster-
sity
fan-
Mr.
It
that ntly
who p to one and nonwhile or a t M.

the acted was desig-
vers last
and-arm Em-
the
as in nowarge ves-e of
and,
him
neral
the

ed a road
car

t of em.)
y re-tion

ster-
man ning
Re-
tion,
how
ed,